

JAZZ

Bowerbird, the experimental music presenting organization, offers a triple-bill of intriguing percussion-centered collaborations.

First is the duo of vibraphonist Ashley

Deekus and trumpeter Dawn Webster, both of whom collaborate with musicians who criss-cross genres from jazz to improv, classical to rock. Next is the local all-percussion trio of Dan Capecchi, drummer of avant-jazz quartet Shot x Shot, and recent Curtis Institute grads Gabe Globus-Hoenich and Patty Franceschy. Last up is a trio led by Japanese-born, Easton-based percussion master Tatsuya Nakatani, who will be joined by the unusual tandem of Houston trombonist Dave Dove and NYC-based trumpeter and MC Jawwaad Taylor.

University City Arts League, 4226 Spruce St., 8 p.m. tomorrow, $5-$10, www.bowerbird.org.

Nakatani

—Shaun Brady